TO BROADEN PROBE IN BASEBALL

Chicago. Sept. 36—A declaration that the unvestigation of the 1919 world's series Taseball scandal would be continued by a special grand jury, was made in a statement issued today by Chief Justice Charles A. McDonaid, who ordered the original inquiry. Every suspicious game, he declared, that has been played within the last 18 months, in either the National or the American league will come within the purview of the investigation.

The investigation, which has resulted in the voting of true bills against eight White Sox players including "Chiek" Gandil, who was not with the team this rear, the udge declared, still has much to accomplish. "To this end," he added, "the present grand jury will be incorporated as a special body Saturday and will go ahead until it has sifted down the fortistice to the last incriminating fact. Every suspicious game which has been played within the last eighteen months in eifter league will be within the purview of the investigation. Because of the rature of limitations, that is as far back as the jury can go.

There need be no doubt about the present grand jury will be incorporated in the world several possibilities. It was also down the victories to the last incriminating fact. Every suspicious game which has been played within the last eighteen months in eifther league will be within the purview of the investigation. Because of the rature of limitations, that is as far back as the jury can go.

There need be no doubt about the presention of guilty players and their co-conspirators. None of those who have confessed has been granted immunity: in act each has specifically walved it. Of course it will be natural for the present for the present fact will be natural for the present grand jury will be incorporated to the comparative-lyst series, the losers' share divided among the individual White Sox players remaining on the White Sox players remaining on the world series pool, makes it possible for the Chicago club, if it finishes in second place and divides the money, for each player to
